

IRVINE BELIEVES COUNTRY IS SAFE

Virginian Confident State's Business Will Not Be Hurt by Tariff Changes.

CABINET IS DISCUSSED

Tucker's Friends Active—Says Ninth District Is Solid for Stuart.

That the business interests of Virginia and of the country at large will be in safe hands when President-Elect Wilson assumes charge of the chief executive office of the nation, and that the recent effort of Wall Street stock manipulators to "bear" the stocks of railroads and industrial corporations was a deep and preconcerted effort to frighten the President-elect and his advisers from walking in the path marked out by the Baltimore platform, is the opinion of Hon. R. T. Tate Irvine, of Big Stone Gap, who is in Richmond on professional business. Mr. Irvine is a well-known Democratic leader in Southwest Virginia, and one of Mr. Wilson's ardent supporters at both the Norfolk and Baltimore conventions, is largely interested in coal and iron properties in his section of the State. When asked by a reporter for The Times-Dispatch yesterday what effect on these leading industries Mr. Wilson's election would have, he said: "Undoubtedly acute tariff agitation will always cause business to halt, and we may naturally expect all lines of activity affected by the tariff to ease up until the new tariff law, which the Democrats are charged with the duty of passing, becomes effective, but as soon as the tariff is settled and the Democratic policy becomes known, I believe business adjustments will be rapidly made and the country will move forward to a greater prosperity than ever before. General and industrial activities will undoubtedly be readjusted to a certain extent in the new tariff, but I don't believe they will be crippled. Our country now leads the world in both the production and consumption of these two commodities, and a tariff for revenue will not hurt those engaged in them. I confidently expect greater progress and development of the coal, coke and iron industries of West Virginia and Southwest Virginia during the next four years than any four years in our history. Mr. Wilson is a progressive, but unlike some other leaders who claim that title, he is a sane progressive. From what I have learned from those very close to Mr. Wilson, I am confident that he will select a Cabinet that will commend itself to the sound judgment of the country, and that the team work of President and Cabinet, in conjunction with that of the party leaders in both branches of Congress, will result in fully redeeming the pledges contained in the Baltimore platform, which I sincerely believe are the correct principles to be followed for the highest and best development of the country.

Virginia and the Cabinet.
"What chance has Virginia for representation in the new Cabinet?" was asked by the reporter.
"That is a hard question to answer. Mr. Wilson is very properly keeping his own counsel about his Cabinet-making, but I believe Virginia has strong claims on the President-elect, which he would be glad to recognize. The friends of Hon. Harry S. George Tucker in Virginia and elsewhere have presented his claims to the President-elect for a Cabinet position, and are pressing his name with much hope of success. The truth is, if necessary, the State of Mr. Wilson's birth could furnish enough good material to fill all the Cabinet places without drafting any one from the other States."

When asked if there were any militant Democrats in the Ninth District willing to serve their country in Federal positions, Mr. Irvine, with a laugh, replied that he thought at least enough such could be persuaded to offer themselves to fill the numerous good and responsible positions now held by Slump Republicans, and added that with the exodus of Republicans from the ninth district, and the irreconcilable differences between the stand-pat and progressive Republicans, the Ninth District can hereafter be safely counted in the Democratic column.

Mr. Stuart's Strength.
When asked regarding the approaching primary for State officers, Mr. Irvine said that little interest has as yet been aroused in any of the nominations to be made by this primary except that of the Governorship. In that race, he said, the Ninth District, with its enormous Democratic vote, will be practically to a man for Henry C. Stuart, and indeed, from contact with leading members of the party from all parts of the State, it seems to me that his nomination is an absolute certainty. In fact, there is a widespread belief that Mr. Stuart will be nominated without opposition. The feeling is strong among the rank and file of the party all over the State that regardless of all past factional differences that may have existed in the party, Mr. Stuart is the right man for the Governorship in this race. Nothing would give greater satisfaction than this to the fighting Democrats of the Southwest."

GANNAWAY AGAIN MADE PRESIDENT

Members of Virginia Farmers' Union Choose Him by Acclamation.

Lynchburg, Va., February 5.—D. M. Gannaway this morning was re-elected president of the Virginia Farmers' Union by acclamation. D. M. Blankenship was re-elected State secretary. J. B. McCormick was elected vice-president, and A. H. Ferguson was elected chairman. The entire executive committee was also elected at the morning session. The members are E. C. Jones, Fluvanna; T. E. Dickerson, Halifax; J. W. Cawthon, of Appomattox; George H. Howles, of Amherst, and P. R. Wray, of Henry.

The morning session convened at 9:30 o'clock, at which time the reports of the State officials and committees were taken up and discussed. President Gannaway read his annual report, and was followed by Secretary Blankenship and C. D. Gordon, chairman of the executive committee, who made the report of his committee.

"Whereas, we believe that the bill introduced by the Farmers' Union and others, proposing that the United States should make a public monopoly of the tobacco business, similar to the coffee monopoly in Brazil, and request Senator Swanson and the members of the United States Congress to introduce a bill into both houses of Congress for their consideration. The resolution in full is as follows:

"Resolved, That this convention respectfully requests Hon. Claude A. Swanson, United States Senator and Hon. Carter K. Glass, member of Congress, to offer this bill in their respective bodies and press the same for passage."

Resolved further, That the president of this organization be hereby instructed to forward copies of said bill and this resolution to the above members of Senate and Congress.

The proposition to create a tobacco monopoly, which has twice been introduced by the State Farmers' Union, is in large measure the result of the agitation by former State Senator A. T. Thomas during the past two years.

City Council Contributes.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Bristol, Va., February 5.—Out of the abundance of its coffers, which now hold a cash balance of $14,000, with an additional $50,000 to come from liquor licenses on May 1, the City Council of this city has voted to contribute $400 to the work of the Children's Home Society of Virginia.

When the patient leaves the Sanitarium, he will know that he is cured, and have no craving or desire for liquor or the drugs. No other institution can or will make this proposition. We challenge investigation.

LECTURE SERIES BEGINS TO-NIGHT

Dr. Burrell, of New York, Speaker at Union Seminary on Sprunt Foundation.

Rev. David James Burrell, D. D., pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, New York City, will deliver the first series of lectures on the Sprunt Foundation, the first lecture being given in the Union Theological Seminary chapel, Ginter Park, to-night. About two years ago, James Sprunt, of Wilmington, N. C., donated to the seminary $30,000 to enable the institution to secure from time to time the services of distinguished ministers and authoritative scholars outside of the regular faculty, as special lecturers on subjects connected with various departments of Christian thought and work. The lecturers are selected by the faculty and a committee of the trustees, and after delivery of all the lectures are published.

The first series of lectures of this foundation begins to-night at 8:15 o'clock. There will be eight lectures, each succeeding night except Sunday, the hour having been set to enable Richmond people to go out on the 8:19 car on the Ashland electric line.

Dr. Burrell is one of the best known preachers in New York City, his church being one of the largest and handsomest of the many church structures on Fifth Avenue.

The Marble Collegiate Church is said to be the oldest on this continent, having been organized by the Dutch settlers of New York in 1628. Dr. Burrell is also president of the Alliance of Reformed Churches Throughout the World Holding the Presbyterian System, and will preach the opening sermon at the meeting of the council of the alliance in Aberdeen, Scotland, next June.

Dr. Burrell will preach in the seminary chapel on Sunday morning, and at the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday night.

The lectures are open to the public, ministers of all denominations being especially invited.

Educators From South and West Marvel at Hampton Institute.

Superintendent Stearnes, of the Department of Public Instruction, returned to Richmond yesterday with glowing accounts of the gathering of Southern educators the first part of the week in Hampton to study methods of teaching agriculture and industrial training in rural schools. Through the financial aid of the General Education Board, about thirty State superintendents and supervisors of education from the South and West were enabled to make the trip to Hampton.

"It is a matter of pride," said Mr. Stearnes yesterday, "that Virginia can teach the rest of the country the best methods in one side of education, at least. The General Education Board thought so highly of our system of teaching agriculture and industrial training in rural schools that it set about giving other States the benefit of our accomplishments."

Among the visitors from other States were the following heads of State departments of education: H. J. Willingham, of Alabama; George B. Cook, of Kansas; Supervisor Sheets, of Florida; H. Harris, of Kentucky; T. H. Harris, of Louisiana; and M. P. Shaw, of West Virginia. With many other officials, these superintendents gathered to meet the seven supervisors of agricultural and industrial work in Virginia's white schools and the twenty supervisors of the same work in the State's colored rural schools.

The Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute was chosen as the most appropriate and illuminating place for the conference to be held, and the explanation of the working of this celebrated training school was one of the features of the meeting.

On the first day of the conference, Dr. Buttick, of the General Education Board, and Superintendent Stearnes addressed the visitors, and the second day was given over to the addresses of Jackson Davis and the twenty-seven supervisors of agricultural and industrial work in Virginia's rural schools. Mr. Davis is in charge of this important work and the supervisors are accountable directly to him. The seven white supervisors are paid partly by the graded school fund and partly by the Peabody Fund, while the twenty colored supervisors are supported by contributions from the James Fund.

INDIAN BRAVES VISIT GOVERNOR

Five Pamunkeys, With Squaws, Call at Capitol With Chief Red Eagle.

Four braves and two squaws of the Pamunkey Indian tribe, accompanying Chief Red Eagle and his squaw, Minnie Sky Eagle, of the Dakotas, wended their way yesterday morning to the State Capitol to smoke the peace pipe with the Great White Chief, Governor Mann, and tell him of the great dance and pow-wow but just ended in the Chickahominy.

The Governor received them smilingly, and granted them a lengthy audience, listening with evident attention to what his redskin visitors had to say. The Great White Chief seemed very much pleased when the Indians told him that they would greet the Governor and his staff in the inaugural parade in Washington with the real Indian war cry.

Chief G. M. Cook, of the Pamunkey tribe, led the procession into the Governor's presence in his capacity of chief of the greatest tribe in Virginia, and host of the occasion. With Chief Cook's squaw came Chief Red Eagle and Minnie Sky Eagle, who were paying their second visit to the Governor. Four of the Pamunkey tribe followed: Buck Dinna and his squaw, Major Cook or Red Shirt and Andrew Collins or Spot-Spotted Horse, the last two sons of Chief Cook.

Chief Red Eagle married Minnie Sky Eagle in the Dakotas several months ago, and on the honeymoon trip brought his bride to visit the Indians of Virginia. The bride and groom dropped in to see the Governor on their way to the Chickahominy to take part in the great pow-wow and dance, and now have returned with their hosts. All the braves who visited the Governor yesterday will go to Washington to take part in the inaugural parade, and promise to keep a sharp look-out for Governor Mann and his gold-bedecked staff.

New Hookworm Inspector.

The State Board of Health yesterday announced the appointment of Dr. R. L. Lickie, of the State Board of Health, as hookworm inspector, assigned for work in the Northern Piedmont section of the State. Dr. Lickie is appointed to the State Department of Health, and will be the fourth inspector named for the State, and will be engaged in school inspection work until the hookworm dispensaries are opened in the spring.

Burglars Are Held at Bay With Store Key

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Payetteville, N. C., February 5.—Handling a store key as if it were a revolver, J. L. Holland held at bay burglars whom he surprised in his store last night, while he called for assistance. When the police came the intruders were huddled into a room and taken to jail. They proved to be two negro women and a boy, who gave their names as Mary Richardson, Maggie Baldwin and Moses Williams. The women admitted that they were the burglars who last week entered the store and stole a quantity of goods.

The women were found, and gave the police information which led to the arrest this afternoon of Earl Williams and his wife, a couple of old negroes, who appear to have been investigators of the store of robbery. The old woman was old, and could not be taken to jail, but was put under bond.

SWAT FLIES NOW, SAYS HURRY CALL

Many Survivors of Warm Winter Threaten Health of Virginia.

Seeing in the drowsy flies now buzzing about the ancestors of a devouring summer host, the State Board of Health yesterday predicted that the summer of 1913 will be memorable for a vast number of flies, unless the people conduct a winter fly-swatting campaign.

Some weeks ago the board issued a bulletin calling attention to the unusual number of flies which seemed to be surviving the winter, but at that time it was thought that freezing weather would destroy many of the pests. Since that time the rigors of winter have not been increased, and the flies who have thus far survived have a fine prospect of living to see warm weather, when they can increase their numbers by millions.

Says the bulletin of the board: "Numbers of reports have reached this office from various parts of the State calling attention to the fact that flies are more numerous than has been the case at the same time for a number of years. This, of course, is attributed to the unusually mild winter, and to the absence of freezing weather. Yet, regardless of the reason, this state of affairs indicates that the fly nuisance will begin early in the spring and will be worse than usual."

It has been estimated that every female fly surviving the winter is the mother of many hundred spring flies, which, in turn, breed millions of the pest by the warm days of early summer. Indeed, the question of fly extermination is largely one of preventing the breeding of these early flies.

Those who hope for peaceful days next summer should swat the wandering pests now. Every fly killed now means a million that will not be born next summer. Every fly allowed to survive will be responsible next July for more flies than can be killed in an active fly-swatting campaign. A winter war on the deadliest animal alive is in order."

Large Realty Deal Recorded.
The Highland Park Realty Corporation yesterday placed on record in the Henrico Circuit Court a deed of bargain and sale whereby it becomes the owner of 47.6 acres of Highland Park property, which it acquired by purchase last December from the East End Building Corporation. The property is located south of the intersection of Dill and Third Avenues, and embraces four blocks wide between Dill and Third Avenues. The price paid was $12,000 in cash, and the assumption of two deeds of trust for $15,000 each.

NEGRO MERCHANT DEAD

H. F. Jonathan Seized With Apoplexy at Supper Table.
While seated at the supper table with his family, H. F. Jonathan, fifty years ago, a well-known and successful merchant of the city, was seized with a stroke of apoplexy last night at 8 o'clock at his home at Fifth and Duval Streets, and expired before the arrival of a physician. He had been in bad health for more than a week, but was not thought to be dangerously ill.

The deceased was one of the most prominent members of his race in Richmond. He was a wholesale dealer in oysters and game, and had considerable business relations throughout the Eastern cities, where his goods were shipped. He was located at 114 North Seventeenth Street for a number of years, succeeding his father in the business. He had been engaged in politics, and was active in colored fraternal orders. At the time of his death he was grand master of the exchequer of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and was its very vice-president of the Merchants' Savings Bank. He is survived by his wife and a large family of children.

BORING ARTESIAN WELL

Highland Park Soon to Have Water Supply—Bond Issue Is Agitated.
After considerable delay actual work on the artesian well which is to supply the people of Highland Park with water has been started. Workmen yesterday began boring, and the work, it is said, will be pushed rapidly until a fine stream of pure water is reached. The people of Highland Park have been greatly inconvenienced by a water shortage, but the condition has been relieved since the recent heavy rains. The water is now being furnished for longer periods each day, and when the well is completed the people will, it is hoped, be able to get all of the liquid they need without stint.

Among the many questions being agitated in Highland Park is the question of a bond issue to cover improvements. The citizens are deeply interested in this question, and it is likely that an application for an election will be made shortly.

BOARD TO DIVIDE MONEY OF SCHOOLS

Apportionment Among Counties of $175,000 for Year to Be Made.

At the next meeting of the So Board of Education, to be held in the Governor's office in the Capitol February 17, an apportionment of the school and graded school funds of counties will be made. The board at its disposal $175,000 for this year, divided $100,000 for high schools at $75,000 for graded schools.

At the same meeting the board will determine its policy toward the summer schools for teachers and define the number of the number of the schools to be conducted this year. In year there were about eighteen summer training schools operated, singly with the greatest success. The is some opposition to the summer school plan, and general discussion expected. The board will endeavor to place the schools strategically from a geographic standpoint all over the State, as was done last summer.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Stearnes is expected to announce this meeting his recommendations to the successor of T. S. Settle, the former State supervisor of rural elementary schools. Mr. Stearnes is expected to make a recommendation to the man who is to replace Mr. Settle, but expected to have his nomination signed on February 17. Mr. Settle is signed on February 1 to become associated with the Plagronde Association of Association of America in capacity of field secretary.

During the month of February Mr. Stearnes and his assistant, Evan L. Chesternut, will visit the following counties making inspections of schools, attending school meetings at conferences: Prince Edward, Madison, Greene, Halifax, Charlotte, Nottoway, Amelia, Lee, Montgomery, Bristol, Rappahannock, and Spotsylvania.
